1. Introduction

What is Healthwatch?

Healthwatch England is the national consumer champion in health and social care. It was set up by the government to ensure that people's views around health and social care services are listened to and fed back to service providers and commissioners with a view to improving services.

There is a local Healthwatch for every Local Authority area in England. Healthwatch Sunderland aims to be a strong local consumer champion working with our partners to support:

- People to shape health and social care delivery
- People to influence the services they receive personally
- People to hold services to account.

We achieve this by:

- Listening to people, especially the most vulnerable, to understand their experiences and what matters most to them
- Influencing those who have the power to change services so that they better meet people's needs now and into the future
- Empowering and informing people to get the most from their health and social care services and encouraging other organisations to do the same.

What is Enter and View?

Under Healthwatch regulations, local Healthwatch organisations have the power to Enter and View providers to enable our authorised representatives to observe matters relating to health and social care services.

The role of the authorised representative is to conduct visits to health and social care premises to capture the patient experience and make recommendations where there are areas for improvement or capture best practice which can be shared.

Enter and View is the opportunity for Healthwatch Sunderland to:

- Enter publicly funded health and social care premises to see and hear first-hand experiences about the service
- Observe how the service is delivered, often by using a themed approach
- Collect the views of service users (patients and residents) at the point of service delivery
- Collect the views of carers and relatives
- Observe the nature and quality of services
- Report to providers, the Care Quality Commission (CQC), local authorities, commissioners, Healthwatch England and other relevant agencies.

Enter and View visits can happen if people tell us there is a problem with a service but equally, they can occur when services have a good reputation, so we can learn about and share examples of what they do well from the perspective of people who experience the service first hand.

Background and rationale

Initial feedback from patients of Harraton Surgery and Springwell House Surgery taken from NHS Choices website picked up some negative feedback from a number of patients. This feedback was collated during the period of August 2016 and November 2016. Some of these comments included:

- 15/08/2016 - NHS Choices - Almost impossible to get an appointment and the doctor is extremely dismissive
- 12/10/2016 - Seen one Dr recently total waste of time this GP should have retired years ago. Another Dr has no patient skills at all and is more interested on the spot on the wall. The HCA is rude, the nurse is only there 2 days a week it's a joke this practice and as for the management what management?
- 10/11/2016 - Doctors are disgraceful, I have never been to a doctors that was so unprofessional in my life. The doctors are rude, dismissive and often late
- 18/11/2016 - One doctor has no time for any patients. There is no female GP or the option to see a female except the nurse
- 26/11/2016 - Both Drs have gave me accurate diagnosis and reassurance.
- 14/11/2016 - Very disappointed with the service from the receptionist and the GP, the receptionists were too busy eating and chatting amongst themselves, all of which could be heard in the waiting area. There is no offer or facility to see a lady GP
- 03/11/2016 - It wasn't worth going to this GP, doctor who arrived 40 minutes late no apology or acknowledgement. This GP is disgraceful and their bedside manner is non-existent. The reception staff are friendly enough when they not eating or having private conversations, the practice nurse on the other hand has no clue when it comes to COPD management and can actually only be seen on 2 days a week. This practice did seem to making improvements however in the last 3 months it's has declined dramatically. If there is no improvement me and my family will be moving surgery.

- 07/11/2016 - Total waste of my time, the GP I saw has no time for their patients, they do not make eye contact and paid little attention to what I was saying, basically dismissed the high blood pressure. The HCA is hard work and has a terrible attitude, the receptionist are ok'ish, and they could definitely do with more staff not even sure they have a manager.

After consideration of this feedback and the recent CQC inspection ratings which placed Springwell House at 'requires improvement', Healthwatch Sunderland's Board decided the Engagement Team would conduct more in-depth research through Enter & View. This would enable us to determine if the negative views given by these patients were generally reflective of the practice.

As the provider for Springwell House is the same as Harraton Surgery (Dr Inder Jeet Singh) it was decided to also conduct Enter and View at Harraton Surgery too.

Our objectives

The purpose of the Enter and View was to:

- Observe the environment and facilities of the practice
- To identify any best practice of service provision
- To give staff the opportunity to highlight their work
- To speak to patients about their experience of the practice.

Acknowledgements

The Enter and View Team would like to acknowledge the support of the patients who came and talked openly and honestly with the team. We would also like to thank those staff members who took time out of their day to answer our questions and give their feedback.

2. Methodology

An initial pre-visit meeting with the Practice Manager, Corraine Lamb and Provider, Dr Inder Jeet Singh was held at Springwell House. This was to explain the Enter and View visit, to understand the needs of the patients and to arrange timescales the visits in a way to cause as little disruption in the practice as possible.

Trained Healthwatch Sunderland authorised representatives carried out the Enter and View visits during the week commencing 22nd May 2017. An authorised representative is a Healthwatch staff member or volunteer who is trained in Enter and View methodology so that they can effectively capture the patient's experience. The staff and volunteer involved carried out 4 separate visits over 2 days, 2 to each practice during morning and afternoon surgeries. This was intended to give us the best access to patients with different needs and collect their feedback.

At each visit patients were asked a range of questions via a set questionnaire (see appendix 1). The questions were constructed to reflect the objectives of the visit and explore the patient feedback we had collated so far. Observations were also made on the physical environment and staff/patient interaction.

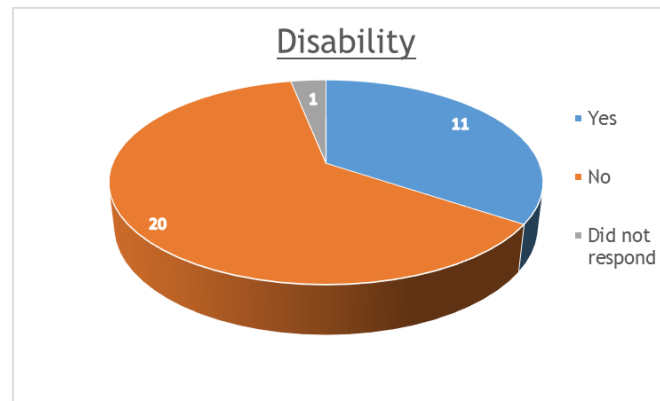

Patients had the option to complete questionnaires themselves whilst in the surgery waiting areas, have support completing them offered by a team if required or take the questionnaire away to complete later, (with this option the team issued them with SAE to be return by 31 May 2017). The practice also made a suitable room available for any of the patients who wished to discuss anything in private with a member of the Enter and View team. However, this offer wasn't taken up.

Staff were also given questionnaires to complete, one aimed at Practitioners and one aimed at Administrative/Reception staff, (see appendix 2 and 3).

Overall comments and feedback

Accessible and friendly

100% of respondents consider both practices to be accessible and friendly. During the Enter and View process the Enter & View team's observations backed this up. The reception staff, GPs and other medical staff appeared to have long term relationships with their patients. They knew many of them by name and gave a warm welcome to all patients on arrival and throughout their visit at both surgeries.

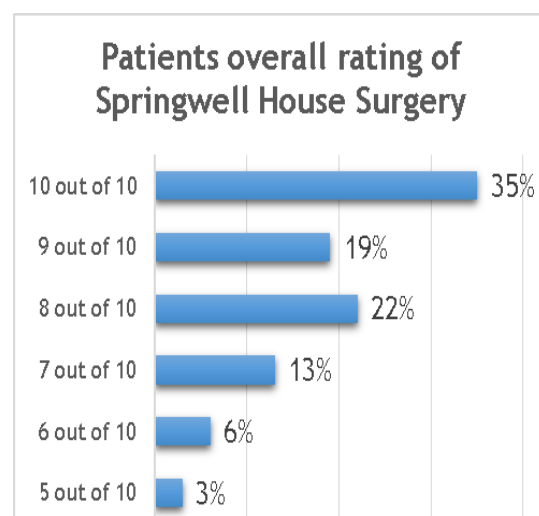

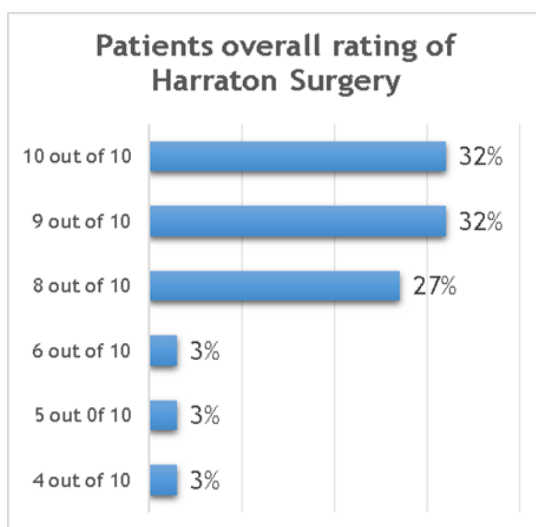

When asked 100% of Springwell House Surgery respondents stated that it is very easy or fairly easy to get through to the practice on the telephone, at Harraton's Surgery the figure was 97%.

Appointment Availability

When asked about accessing appointments with a GP, 100% of respondents waited a week or less for a routine appointment at both surgeries. When asked about accessing appointments with other medical staff, at Harraton Surgery 78% stated that they waited a week or less, at Springwell House Surgery 100% stated they waited a week or less.

Another observation the team made and patients commented on was that the GPs often run late for appointments. When asked how long they spend with their GP during appointments, over 70% of respondents at both practices said they lasted 10 minutes or more. Several patients added that the length of the appointment depended upon their individual needs. These comments help to explain why the GPs often run late and during consultations, patients said they understood this to be the case and for these patients it appeared not to be a problem. However the Enter & View team did note that a few patients whilst sitting in the waiting room were displaying what appeared to be signs of frustration at the waiting times.

Overall patient ratings - Patients gave their overall rating for each surgery:

Staff feedback

The Practice Manager acknowledged in her feedback that improvements need to be made around GPs running late for their appointments. She said:

“Most patients are happy with the service we provide and like the GP, so happy to wait if he is running late.”

The Enter and View team’s observations and their discussions with patients confirm this comment. She also stated that the duration of appointments depends upon the patient and their needs. When asked, the Practice Manager gave the practice an overall rating of 9/10.

The other medical staff commented that they all feel they have sufficient time during an appointment for their patients and the surgery allows some flexibility to adjust this to suit the individual needs of the patients. One staff member highlighted that privacy around the reception area is an issue and said:

“Privacy can be a bit of an issue due to the layout of the building. If a patient wants privacy a receptionist uses either my room or a GP’s room.”

One of the GPs also mentioned this in their feedback. When asked the other medical staff gave the practice an average overall rating of 9/10.

The reception and admin staff stated that although they all felt the GP ran late for appointments, this happened on rare occasions. Echoing what the Enter & View team observed and the Practice Manager’s comments, some of the admin/reception staff team also stated the length of appointments was dependant on the patient need. All commented that they were given regular lunch and rest breaks. When asked the admin/reception team gave the practice an average overall rating of 9/10.

Two questionnaires were completed by one GP and one locum GP. Both GPs stated that they run late for their appointments most of the time. The reasons they cited for this were “Patients take more time than 10 minutes and we have to put all consultations onto the computer” and “extra patients, multiple problems and complex patients.” Both GPs commented that they would like to spend more time with their patients, but felt the barriers preventing this were; time limits, paperwork and the number of patients requiring appointments. When asked one GP gave the practice an overall rating of 9/10 and the other gave an 8/10.

“I feel I do get good time for my patients” (Healthcare Assistant)

“Receptionists are very friendly and helpful towards our patients. They go above and beyond to help them.” (Practice Manager)

4. Recommendations

Recommendation 1

Both practices may find it useful to consider encouraging patients to book longer appointment times with the GP and other medical staff if required.

Patients of both practices commented that Practitioners frequently run late for appointments, an average of 78% for GPs and 34% for other medical staff. In order to help improve this, it is recommended that the admin/reception staff team encourage patients to book longer appointment times if they feel this is required i.e. when patients are visiting the surgery for multiple conditions.

Recommendation 2

Both practices may find it useful to consider further communication to patients around the availability of a private space for confidential conversations.

As many patients, (44%) commented that the reception desks/areas at both practices don't lend themselves to private and confidential conversations we recommend that further communication with patients is made to make patients aware that should they need to talk in confidence both practices have the facility to offer a private space. This could be done through face to face conversations with patients, via both practice websites & newsletters and making use of more prominent signage around the reception desk/area.
